

Matt Petri

Matt Petri started jumping at the age of 14 at Deerfield Academy in Deerfield Massachusetts under the coaching of Don Burdick. He jumped through high school and then 4 years in college at St. Lawrence University (SLU) on the Eastern collegiate winter carnival circuit, and at regional and national events.

After graduating from SLU in 1981, Matt moved to Lake Placid, New York to live and train full-time in pursuit of a spot with the U.S. Ski Team and Olympic Team. Over the next three years, he paid his own way to travel to training camps and competitions in North America, Scandinavia and Europe, many times with the U.S. Ski Team with the help of national team coaches-Rex Bell, Greg Windsperger and Erling Rimeslåtten.

In January 1984, Matt skied his way onto the U.S. Team at the U.S. National Championships & Olympic Trials in Steamboat Springs, CO. The next week, he secured a spot on the U.S. Olympic Ski Jumping Team with a 1st place finish in the fourth, and final, Olympic Trial on the 90 meter hill in Lake Placid with a jump of 122 meters; at the time the longest jump in competition on that hill by an American.

Injured at the 1984 Winter Olympic Games in Sarajevo, Matt decided to compete for another 4 years. While he fought to recover from his injury in the years that followed, Matt again skied his way onto the U.S. team for the 1988 Winter Olympic Games in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Matt retired from competitive ski jumping after those Games at the age of 29.

Now:

Matt recently retired from the financial services industry after 35 years working to help Americans save for retirement in 401(k) retirement plans as senior sales executive at Fidelity Investments, Financial Engines, and T. Rowe Price. His new “office” is the outdoors – skiing, mountain and road biking, and golf. Matt skied over 1 million vertical feet this season!

Matt lives with his wife Nell in Larkspur, CA (just north of the Golden Gate Bridge). Nell is a Director at Continuing Education of the Bar – California in Oakland. His daughter Molly graduated from Duke School of Nursing in May 2021 and now is a nurse at Duke University Hospital in Durham, NC. His son Chase graduated from University of Denver in June 2021 with a degree in finance and now is an Associate Internal Sales Director for Empower Retirement.
